TUTORVISTA NAMED EXCLUSIVE ONLINE TUTORING PROVIDER FOR MSN ENCARTA

San Francisco, CA, November 30, 2006 – TutorVista today was named the exclusive online tutoring provider for Microsoft’s MSN Encarta online education portal. The deal calls for MSN Encarta to actively market TutorVista’s online tutoring and test preparation services throughout the MSN Encarta Web portal.

“We are thrilled to provide our online tutoring service to the MSN Encarta community,” said TutorVista founder and chairman Krishnan Ganesh. “This partnership provides TutorVista greater mainstream exposure and validates TutorVista’s online one-on-one tutoring and test prep model as a quality global resource and solution.”

TutorVista offers personalized, one-on-one tutoring and test preparation to K-12, college and graduate level students in a variety of individual subjects and exams. TutorVista’s programs are customized to ensure more time is spent targeting students’ problem areas to maximize learning, grades and test scores with the available time. Online sessions begin with a comprehensive diagnostic assessment to identify student strengths and weaknesses, followed by development of individualized learning strategies. Virtual classrooms are equipped with voice and chat (IM) messaging as well as an electronic whiteboard for interactive use by both student and tutor. Unlike most classroom style tutor and test prep sessions, TutorVista’s one-on-one approach guarantees a high level of individualized attention at a fraction of the cost of most leading test prep and tutoring companies.
